

One day in the clouds, two Gods realised there is an under water endless hallway in Liverpool. The Gods were named Throne and Andrew. The Gods noticed that to reach the under water endless hallway, it will take two hours and no one ever knew what was in the end of it. So late one night at 12^{1/4}! am they disguised as humans are sleeping they went out, and they were extremely tired, when they finally got there but what they saw was shocking! They saw... They saw real ~~free~~ treasure, but not just that!

The thing is they didn't just see treasure, they saw two humans crying. The Gods asked why were they crying. They answered with a shocking answer! They said that the treasure isn't real. The two humans introduced themselves (as Alice and Antony). The Gods were shocked, but then they saw a strange silver statue holding a stick. Antony pressed a button and a secret door opened, they entered and saw two men laughing so the Gods held them by the back of their shirt.

Alice and Antony looked under one of the evil men's but and they found a pen. The Gods clicked the pen and they teleported to the beach of Liverpool. The Gods thanked the humans and gave them a wish, one for each. Antony wished for when both of them die they would go to heaven. Alice wished for real treasure for herself and her friend, and their wish came true and wanted their goodbyes to the Gods. The two evil men went to hell.

The End.
